"HAMLET" BY THE BEN GREET PLAYERS

First Quarto Rendering Said to Make Decided Difference in Impression Created Upon Audience by This Classic

The Northfield Schools, in company with the townspeople and friends from the nearby towns and cities, shared in the enjoyment of a satisfying and intelligent production of "Hamlet." The experience that lies back of Ben Greet's interpretation of the play as a whole made itself felt both in the vigor and unity of impression created by the entire tragedy and in the distinction with which every detail was presented.

The praise that was given freely to many of the scenes and characters makes it difficult to single out any one portion for special mention. Perhaps the acting and appearance of Ofelia met with the most unstinted approval and acclaim. The delicate, youthful, gentle aspects of this most unhappy maiden were shown appealingly. The difficult mad scene was interpreted with insight and restraint. The singing of the snatches of old ballads was beautifully done with a voice so finely trained that no training was apparent. Even the most critical of pendents who had coined the lines in order to squeeze from them every atom of meaning, could not fail to be completely satisfied by the portrayal of Ofelia's character. Nor does her character suffer from the use of the First Quarto.

The telescoping of the play (or, to be more accurate, the effect of telescoping which a knowledge of the longer version gives) seems to hasten the action to such an extent that the melancholy contemplative, procrastinating side of "Hamlet" is lost and in its place we have a vigorous individual who seems a little doubtful as to what he is going to do next. The traditional concept of his personality, i. e., dreaming, philosophizing, suffers from the use of the inferior version of his three great soliloquies. But granting this structure which is imposed upon the actor by the version used by Ben Greet, Thordike, despite the handicap, gave a splendid interpretation of this most fascinating and beloved of Shakespeare's heroes. The nervous tension and mental excitement of the ghost scene, the eating earnestness of the play within the play scene, the gentleness alternated with abuse of the scene with Ofelia, the bitter humor over the dead body of Corambis, all these variations of mind and temper showed the gusty, uneven Hamlet. Perhaps no interpretation of character caused as much discussion as did Sir Ben Greet's conception of Polonius (Corambis). Some thought that the doddering, sly, interfering, ineffectual old man was shown to perfection. Others thought that the character was so kindly and delightful and so good to look upon as to expression of face and eyes, that the ignoble side of Polonius was lost and his death was not, therefore, satisfyingly fitting.

The villainous king, his too-youthful but regal and charming queen, the absurd Rosencraft and Gilderstone, the perfectly delightful pantomime of the players, the loyal Horatio, all brought before our very eyes long-dreamed of and much-loved people whom we had for a long, long time wanted to know and behold, they came and, contrary to such meetings in real life, they met and in some cases out-did our anticipations as to what they would be like.

COMMUNITY SADDENED BY ANOTHER DEATH

Marjorie Mae Sherwood Came Home Only Week Ago and Passed Away on Friday

The community is saddened by the death, on Friday morning, Nov. 25, of Mrs. Marjorie Mae Sherwood at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Waite of Glenwood avenue. She came from her former home here from Millers Falls just a week previous to her death, and was found to be critically ill with dropsy and heart disease. She had suffered with the latter trouble since girlhood.

The greater part of her life has been associated with Northfield, where she was born, Sept. 5, 1895. She attended Northfield Seminary. On Dec. 5, 1917, she married, in New York, Walter Sherwood, a student of Mount Hermon school, who then enlisted in the World War. Besides her husband and parents, she leaves two sons, Robert, 10 years, and Victor, one and one-half years old; also a brother, Joseph Waite of Springfield. She joined the Congregational church here in her girlhood, and her pastor, Rev. F. W. Patterson, officiated at her funeral, which was held Wednesday at the home on Glenwood avenue at 2 p. m. Interment was in Center cemetery. Great sympathy is felt for her family, especially for the parents, who have given her the most devoted care through her many illnesses.

Mrs. Rice of Deerfield gave a report on the Women's Club forest in Norwood. TO MERGE WITH OTHER FRANKLIN CO. BANKS

Northfield National Bank to Affiliate With Western Mass.
Banking Associates

Announcement is made that the Northfield National Bank is to merge its interests with other National banks of Franklin County, and its affiliation became effective last Saturday morning, when control passed to the Western Massachusetts Banking Associates, a voluntary organization conducted under a declaration of trust to acquire control of banks in this section of the State.

Each bank will retain its own identity and its officers will conduct its affairs as formerly, being directly responsible to and under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States Government at Washington.

Each bank will be represented in the board of the holding corporation, and William F. Hoehn, president of the Northfield Bank, has been made a trustee. The largest bank in the group is the First National Bank and Trust Company of Greenfield, and John W. Smead, president of that institution, is president of the holding corporation.

The Northfield National Bank was organized Jan. 26, 1928, and began its career on March 1 of the same year with the establishment of the bank in the Town hall. Its first officers were William F. Hoehn, president, Elliott Speer, vice president, and Merwin D. Birdsall, cashier. Its assets have gone over the amount of $150,000, and its commercial and savings department is steadily growing, at present the savings department paying 5 per cent interest.

The directors of the Northfield Bank at present consist of Messrs. Clarence P. Buffum, William F. Hoehn, Charles C. Stearns, Elliott Speer, Frank W. Williams, Merwin D. Birdsall, Joseph F. Bittinger, Dr. Richard G. Holton and Dr. Allen H. Wright.

The result of the merger will be to greatly enlarge the strength and influence of the member banks.

A Yuletide Wish by Mary Graham Bonner

I wish I were a Christmas tree,
For that would be most jolly,
All jangled with mistle gay
And decked about with holly.

I'd go about with candles
In a robe of blazing lights,
A brilliant picture I would be
On the merriest night of nights.

What joy the little folk would have
As they'd gaze up at me—
And I'd have lots of cheer for them
In my role as Christmas tree.

So this year instead of thinking
How pleasant that would be
I'll carry out this new idea
And be a human Christmas tree!

THE PRINCE of PEACE

In every new-born little child,
In every soul that feels a light,
In every truth that comes to men,
In every conquest of the night,
In every sigh of human love,
That comfort brings to hearts forlorn,
Again the angels whisper to their sons,
Again the Prince of Peace is born.

And they who hope, and work with cheer,
And bear in patience what they must,
And wait for sorrow's far-off fruit,
And fill their lives with lowly trust—
Their eyes made clear from films of sin,
By faith's pure love, and love's increase,
Shall always see the star that lights
The birthplace of the Prince of Peace.

And they whose loving wills are one
With that sweet life which is the law,
All round about their feet shall shine
A light that never ceases;
And they who cherish child-like hearts,
And keep their natures fresh as morn,
Shall every day hear angels sing,
"Today the Prince of Peace is born."

"Rio Rita" to be Given at Garden Theatre, Greenfield

"Rio Rita," the all-talking, all-musical Radio Pictures' extravaganza, which opens at the Garden theater Saturday, is evidence—tuneless, colorful evidence—that the screen has touched a new high mark in entertainment.

As the first opera in sound and color, "Rio Rita" opens up a great new vista of entertainment to these cities and towns geographically barred from the Broadway spectacles of Ziegfeld and the Shuberts.

Yet it is questionable whether Ziegfeld himself ever so "glorified" a show as Radio Pictures has done to "Rio Rita." Certainly the wider limitations of the camera have given to the gay romance of the Rio Grande more movement and action than could ever have been accomplished on the stage.

Announcement just has been made of the formation of the R.C.A. Institutes, Inc., a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, for the purpose of establishing radio schools in various cities throughout the country to meet the steadily increasing demand for trained radio men. The new organization is the successor to the Radio Institute of America, formerly the Marconi Institute founded in 1909, and the oldest commercial radio school in existence. Rudolph L. Duncan, for many years Director of the Radio Institute of America, is president. General J. G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, is Chairman of the Board.

Headquarters and the main school will be at 326 Broadway, New York. The new organization has acquired also the Philadelphia School of Wireless, founded in 1911, and the Eastern Radio Institute of Boston, founded in 1913.

FURTHER GAIN FOR RADIO IN SCHOOLS

With the beginning of the Winter school term the radio loudspeaker has taken its place beside the blackboard as an aid to teaching. According to Quinton Adams, Vice-President of the Radio-Victor Corporation of America, thirty schools in various parts of the country have begun the new term equipped with centralized radio apparatus for the distribution of educational programs to the classrooms and between sixty and seventy other schools are planning similar installations. Every school year brings an extension of education by radio.

Party Suppers That All Enjoy

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

EVERYWHERE there are congenial couples who gather regularly at one another's homes to pass an enjoyable evening.

For such informal—and often impromptu—affairs, many hostesses find it most satisfactory, particularly to the men folks, to serve one hot dish, with suitable accompaniments, rather than the more usual "party meal" of sweets.

And these suppers are much more fun if they are so planned that all the actual preparation is made beforehand, with only the serving to be done at the last moment.

The following menus for midnight suppers have proved most satisfactory and enjoyable to many groups; we know:

Menu I
Scalloped Eggs and Olives on Toast Points
Shamrock Rolls Sweet Pickle Cheese Crackers
Cherry Preserves Coffee

Old Lady (sniffing): "What's that awful odor?"
Farmer: "That's fertilizer."
Old Lady (astonished): "For the land's sake!"
Farmer: "Yes, ma'am."

Menu II
Hot Cheese Sandwiches
Ripe Olives Fresh Cucumber Pickles
Pineapple Salad Supreme
Cookies Coffee

Menu III
Mushroom Patties Stuffed Olives
Sandwich Relish Sandwiches
Very Small Coffee Cakes
Apple Butter Coffee

Scalloped Eggs and Olives—
Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan; add 4 tablespoons flour and stir until well blended. Add 2 cups milk and cook, stirring constantly until thick. Season with salt, pepper and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Add eggs cut in slices, and ½ cup stuffed olives, sliced. Pour into buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven. This dish may be prepared and ready to place in the oven before the guests arrive.

Hot Cheese Sandwiches—Mix 1 cup grated American cheese with 3 tablespoons chili sauce. Spread on buttered slices of white bread, trim crusts and toast. Serve hot. Spread sandwiches before serving time, and toast at the last minute.

Pineapple Salad Supreme—Arrange individual nests of lettuce. Spread slices of pineapple with a layer of cream cheese. Decorate each slice with 4 halves of walnut meats, and place on the lettuce. In the center of each pineapple ring place a spoonful of current jelly. At one side serve a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing.

Mushroom Patties—Remove caps from one pound of fresh mushrooms; peel and break into pieces. Peel the stems and slice thinly. Cook both stems and caps in a saucepan with 4 tablespoons butter for three minutes. Season with salt and pepper, add 4 tablespoons flour and stir until blended. Add 2 cups milk or thin cream, and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Cook for five minutes. Serve in hot patty shells and garnish with stuffed olives.

The argument between Harry and Larry was waxing warm. "Say!" Harry ejaculated, "do you want me to knock you into the middle of next week?"
"I'd certainly appreciate it," responded Larry, gratefully. "I've got a date with your girl for Wednesday night."

Mother: "What is a necking party?"
Daughter: "Heavens on earth!"
Mother: "Oh."

Household Dangers

If mothers realized that many frightful casualties every year on account of carelessness on their part, I am sure they would be more vigilant in their effort to avoid these. Never have a small child can get to it, for it seems kettle or pall of boiling water where judge by the many accounts of accidents resulting from this form of carelessness. Just the other day I heard of an instance of a mother who had boiled a ham out of doors, and when the ham was cooked she removed the kettle from the fire, but the hot bed of coals was left to die out at will. Shortly after the mother had gone into the house she heard the screams of her little two-year-old girl. She ran out, and there, to her horror, she saw her baby sitting in the bed of coals. She evidently had walked on the hot coals and the pain had caused her to drop. It was too late to be careful, as after terrible suffering the child died. In a home where there are small children, strong medicines or poisons should not be kept in the medicine chest, or in any place where little hands can reach, but it is a much safer plan to keep a boric solution on hand for the many small accidents happening to children every day. For the slight cut, earache, styes, hives and numerous other ailments, the boric acid is a safe first aid help. To prepare, simply dissolve one tablespoon boric acid in a pint of very hot water and shake well. Some are not aware of the danger there is in leaving tin cans containing fruit, meat or vegetables open. The poison thus generated has many times resulted in sickness or death; therefore, they should be emptied as soon as opened. Many women do not know that an almost empty lamp is a menace to life. It is this, not the full lamp, that is in danger of exploding.

"Pinafore" To Be Given by Greenfield Schools

Charles A. Woodbury, director of music in the public schools of Greenfield, announced that the benefit performance, "Pinafore," Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, will be given in the Garden theatre on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17. The production, which is being staged by a local cast of 60 for the benefit of the public school band, was originally scheduled to take place in the Lawler theatre, but the recent fire in that playhouse made such an undertaking impossible. The high school auditorium was next suggested, but with the granting of the use of the Garden theatre by Samuel Goldstein of the G-B Theatre Corporation, these plans were hastily abandoned.

In giving the use of the Garden theatre for this performance, Mr. Goldstein wished it to be made clear that the privilege was contrary to the general policy of the G-B theatres, who do not allow the use of its theatres to local shows of this type. However, he stated that in view of local conditions and because the opera will be a direct benefit to the Greenfield public school band, he will gladly interrupt his regular schedule.

The proceeds of the show are to be used to purchase a complete new set of uniforms for the band. In the cast are many local favorites, including Mrs. Ernestine Hubbard, Miss Thelma Adams, Mrs. Margaret Harrington, Dr. R. E. Hubbard, William Hough, Charles Stebbins, James Hanley, Benjamin C. L. Sandler and Rollin Farr.

Charles H. Frary

Charles H. Frary, aged 77, died at his home Saturday after a long illness. He has been under the care of a nurse most of the time since the death of his wife last spring, and since the recent death of his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Patrick, had failed very rapidly. Mr. Frary was born in Heath, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Frary. His parents died when he was young and he went to live with Morris Carpenter of Rowe, where he went to school. As a young man he worked on several farms in this vicinity. He married Miss Florence Meacham of West Hawley in 1880, and one child, Pearl Frary, was born to them. Mrs. Frary died about 43 years ago and 12 years later he married Miss Etta Hubbard of this town, who died last spring. Mr. Frary lived in the house in which he died for over 40 years.

The funeral was held from Johnson's undertaking parlors at Shelburne Falls and burial was in Levitt cemetery. The bearers were Charles Pleshaw, Fred Legate, Charles Churchill and Lawrence Tinney. Rev. Dorr A. Hudson officiated. Mr. Frary is survived by a grandson, Aubrey Patrick, of this town, and three half-sisters, Mrs. Alden Streeter of East Charlemont, Mrs. Harriett Houston and Mrs. Mary Galvin of Greenfield, and a nephew, Leon Houston, of Greenfield.

EVERY LOCAL MAN OR WOMAN WHO CAN DO SO SHOULD ADVERTISE IN THEIR LOCAL NEWSPAPER

It ought to be a pleasure; it should be profitable; but in any event . . . it surely is the DUTY of every local merchant, manufacturer, professional man or woman, public entertainment et. al. . . . to ADVERTISE IN THEIR LOCAL NEWSPAPER.

The local newspaper is a combination news and advertising sheet for all the locality and unless EVERYBODY contributes it cannot fulfill its mission, let alone grow better and bigger and more powerful, as it should each month and each year.

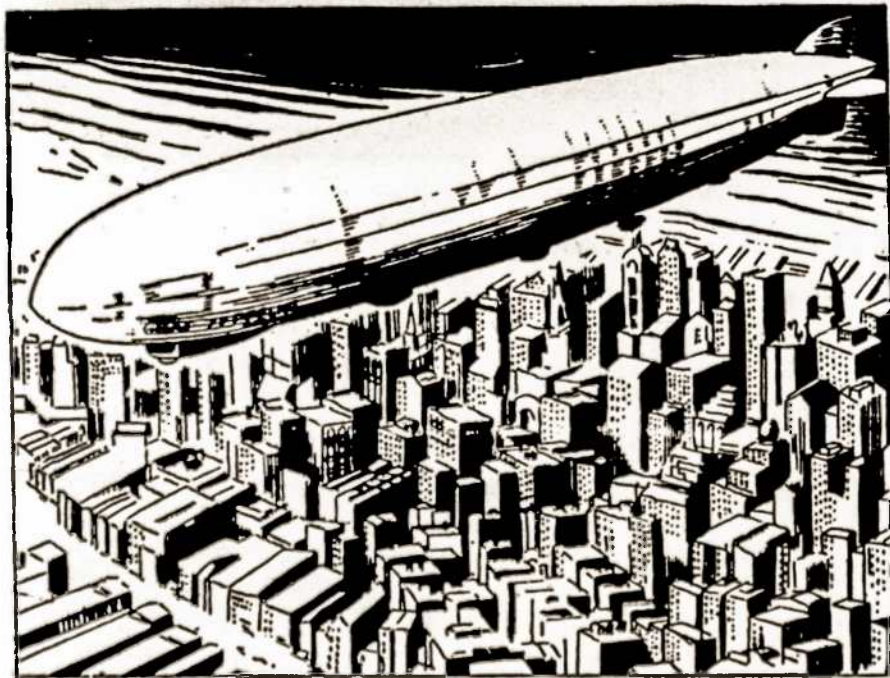

The only way that the merchant or other local advertiser should judge the local newspaper is by its news and editorial contents. If, on the face of it, this local news and editorial contents AVERAGE WELL FROM WEEK TO WEEK, the local newspaper DESERVES AND USUALLY GETS ALL THE CIRCULATION THAT IT IS ENTITLED TO.

(Let us digress for a moment: For the outside advertiser, the so-called general advertiser. . . the QUANTITY of a newspaper's circulation is most important. For the local advertiser the QUALITY is the thing.)

And the local advertiser should not be influenced in regard to advertising for any reason of not agreeing with something said in the paper . . . or something left unsaid, for that matter. What kind of a spineless sheet would that be (and how uninteresting?) that pleased everybody in every way every issue? And, of course, it would be impossible anyhow. We all make mistakes (even editors) and sometimes we change our minds about things or find out that we were wrong in the first place. It has been said that the man who makes no mistakes never does anything and there are several mouthfuls in that statement.

Look at it how you like, it surely is the DUTY of every local merchant et al to contribute with advertising to the local news and advertising sheet of his community. AND IF SUFFICIENT CARE IS GIVEN TO BOTH WHAT THE ADVERTISER SAYS AND WHAT HE DOES IN REGARD TO WHAT HE SAYS, such local advertising is bound to be PROFITABLE to both the local advertiser and the local newspaper; not right on the first or even the third or seventh insertion, perhaps, in all cases, but SOON AND ULTIMATELY. It will be most profitable to the local advertiser whose business warrants insertion of some sort of an advertisement in each and every issue of the local newspaper.

A local newspaper should be as near to the ideal of a perpetual motion machine as possible. THE MORE LOCAL ADVERTISING IN EACH ISSUE THE BETTER THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER BECOMES IN EVERY WAY AND THE MORE PROFITABLE IT BECOMES TO THE LOCAL ADVERTISER. Cheerio!

A Celestial Menu

THE story of the Graf Zeppelin's world tour is now history, and history also to its passengers is the food provided by Heinrich Zubie, chief steward on the huge craft. They undoubtedly cherish memories of the flight, but don't you think that some of them have also just a reminiscent tinkle of the palate when they think of the things that Zubie got from Louis Sherry when the big airship left New York, and which he served to them far up in the air.

An Astonishing Menu

These foods included, among other things, three hundred one-gallon cans of soups, relishes, meats, fish, vegetables, French dressing, mayonnaise, catsup and sauces. Potato chips, caviar, peeled ed asparagus, sour gherkins, and special table water were also among the provisions put on board.

The fresh fruits included grapefruit and oranges and the fresh meats served were sirloin steaks, lamb, tongue, and Virginia and domestic hams. Bread and cake in large cartons, as well as tasty tarts were taken along on the airship.

Even Ice Included

To keep all the foodstuffs fresh, and in order to be able to serve cold what should be served cold in this celestial menu, dry ice was included with the food cargo. Flying may in time become commonplace, but there was nothing commonplace about the canned and fresh foods provided for this great initial flying adventure.

Texas is larger than France; California is much larger than Italy, while Montana is larger than New York. Illinois and Ohio combined.

Off the coast of Miami, Florida, there is a spot in the ocean where fresh water may be found. This is because a subterranean river forms a huge spring there.

The London Daily Mail has the largest circulation of any newspaper in the world. It sells two million copies a day.

"What became of the hired hand you got from the city?"
"He used to be an engineer and he crawled under a znuie to see why it didn't go."

The Gift of the Holy Spirit

John 14:15, 16, 17, 18. If ye love me, keep my commandments. 16. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; 17. Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him; but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. 18. I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you.
Prayer: Thus saith the Lord God, I will put a new spirit within you.

Jewelry Appropriate to the Time, Place and occasion

The one dependable test of age, so the philosophers assure us, is the flexibility of the mind. You're old at 22 if you're intolerant; young at 80 if you can assimilate new ideas.

Therefore, it is not to be taken as a sign of senility and decay if one harps eternally on the shadowy charms of the good old days? "When I was a girl," seldom finishes on a note of approval.

"When I was a girl," said an elderly woman the other day, "it was considered extremely poor taste to wear imitation jewelry or lace!"

She glanced triumphantly at her niece, who grinned composedly back. "That's because you wore imitation jewelry and lace with the intent to deceive," niece declared with the appalling frankness that characterizes nieces these days.

She went on to say that the lace she wore deceived no one, neither did her costume jewelry.
"I have a few pieces of good jewelry, of real value, and I hope to accumulate more as times go on," explained niece. "But I keep it, as I keep my clothes, for the appropriate occasions. Just because a girl has an imported frock doesn't mean she can wear it morning, noon and night, till it is worn out. The diamond bar pin daddy brought me from Paris is lovely, but how would I look going down to the office some week day morning with a diamond bar on my blueserge dress?"

SUCCESSFUL TWO DAY FAIR IN TOWN HALL

"Mother Goose Bazaar" Was All That Was Planned And Then Some

The ladies of the First Congregational church held a very successful two-day fair in the Town hall last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and it was named the "Mother Goose Bazaar" this year.

There was a large number at the supper Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock, the menu consisting of chicken pie, mashed potato, turnip, jelly, celery, rolls, pickles, pie, cake and coffee.

Too much cannot be said of the fine entertainment which was given by the children Wednesday evening. It was a children's operetta, and the characters were: Story People, Mary, Mary,

Shirley Garfield; Boy Blue, Richard Hildreth; Jack and Jill, Lawrence Delano and Marion Lorraine Stearns; Bo-Peep, Lucinda Patterson; Robin Hood, Alexander Oski; Tom, Tom, Annie Delano; Miss Muffet, Lucille Stearns; Jack Horner, Robert Butler; Curley Locks, Muriel Ring; Tommy Tucker, Gerald Quigley; Red Riding Hood, Barbara Howard; Grant, Bernard O'Connor; Witch, Beverly Deane; Alice in Wonderland, Mildred Burns; Simple Simon, Fred Kendrick; Old Mother Hubbard, Barbara Garfield; Sandman, Ronald Brown.

Fairies: Fairy Queen, Helen Powers; Fairies, Lois Holland, Edna Lucille Holland, Sally Taylor, Mary Louise Powers, Leatrice Streeter, Dorothy Hunt, Christine Starkey. The operetta was in one act, the entire action taking place in the garden of Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary. The crux of the operetta occurred at twilight hour, when Earth children passed through the gate to storyland, finding there characters they love best. On Thursday evening, supper of roast and turkey, mashed potato, squash, celery, cranberry sauce, rolls, pickles, pie, cake and coffee was served. Following the supper, the three-act comedy drama, Ace High, by J. C. McMullen, was presented through special arrangement with Walter H. Baker Company of Boston, by the following characters: Parker Jones, the retired fertilizer king, Richard Howe; Catherine, his wife, Mrs. George Rubeor; Gladys, their eldest daughter, Mrs. Edward Plantier; Kit, their youngest daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kimball; Morey, their son, Paul Chamberlain; Mrs. Maxfield, a guest in the Jones home, Miss Gladys Swain; Blair Challman, the garage man, Ray Fletcher; Mac, the ace, George Rubeor; Fulton, the butler, Levi Howard; Dora Cowan, the gardener's daughter, Miss Elma Bevis; Bevis.

Each character in the play performed their part to perfection, and the audience, which was large, were more than pleased with the production. The hall was very prettily trimmed, as well as all the booths. Following are the committees that had charge of the fair:

"My plate is damp," complained a traveler who was dining in a London hotel.

"Hush," whispered his wife. "That's your soup."

"Last night, madam," said the tourist at the ancient rural hostelry, "you informed me that the Duke of Wellington once stayed in this hotel. Is it a fact?"

"It is, sir," beamed the landlady, "a solemn fact. He slept in the very room you had last night."

"Was it just the same as it is now?" "Just the very same."

"Same bed in it?" "The very identical bed." "And the Duke of Wellington slept in it—he actually slept in it?" "Ain't that what I'm telling ye? He actually slept in that very bed you 'ad last night." "Great Caesar!" exclaimed the tourist. "No wonder they called him the Iron Duke."

The Gateway of Opportunity

The Northfield Schools Exist for Boys and Girls of Moderate Means.

They are the gateway of opportunity for the sons and daughters of homes without surplus money.

All the Northfield students help pay their way through school working on an average of 10 hours each week. This "work hour" helps to develop independence, initiative, self-reliance - mental and moral fibre.

A student at Northfield is measured by his character and his ambition---not by his clothes and spending money.

The Northfield Schools are the Gateway of Opportunity for hundreds of boys and girls of The Tri-County Area - Franklin County, Mass., Windham County Vt., and Cheshire County, N. H.

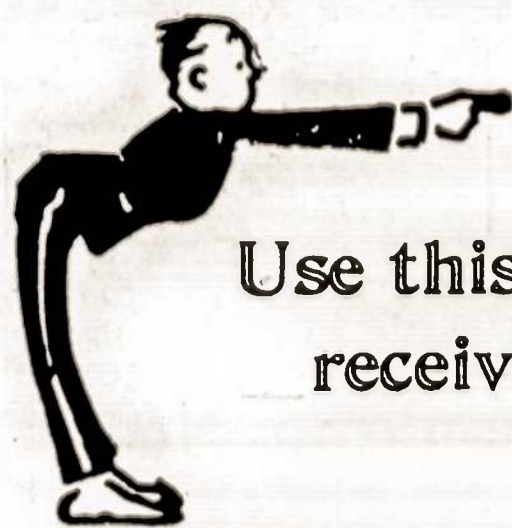

One hundred and two of our home boys and girls are now enrolled in the Northfield Schools. Seven hundred and forty-three graduates of the Northfield Schools are now living in the Tri-County Area.

The present campaign in the Tri-County Area is the initial step in the National campaign, the objective of which is $3,000,000.

As the campaign goes here--so in all probability it will go elsewhere. Let us here at home set a worthy example to our friends in distant places. It is for us to lead the way.

Let us help keep the Gateway of Opportunity wide open.

Let us help to Make the Future Secure--To Make the Past Endure

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

THE PROFESSOR'S HOUSE, by Willa
Cather, Knopf, pages 283

Schools of literature are an interesting study. In theory, at least, there should be no fashions in the arts. The artist should look about him at the world and write of what he sees there, as he sees it, regardless of the opinions or attitude of his fellow workers and contemporaries. But in practice, this seldom works out. The genius is not the man who does an entirely new and original piece of work, but the man who does what everyone is doing, and does it better.

"The Professor's House" is the story of a man who has spent his life in scholarly pursuits, a successful life of constructive effort and personal happiness, but a life which contains its frustrations none the less. It is the third-drawn, subtle, intellectualized play of emotion in a setting that does not change and that has no external drama. The excitement of the book is injected into the book to bring out the monotony of the professor's life or the professor is there to bring out the adventure of the young man's life, is not clear. But the effect of contrast is gained and the book is charming and well worth reading.

But the two stories do not interweave. The reader is left with the impression that ordinary life is dull and that to get drama it is necessary to adventure into far places. This is a pet theory of modern literature. It is false. The life that goes on all about us is as vivid, as melodramatic, as full of grim and broad humor, as the life that is led by explorers in far places or by sophisticated groups in cities. The trouble is that we close our eyes to the drama on our doorstep and look into the distance for a thrill. And that attitude is reflected in literature.

But now consider Hamlet, which we have seen recently. No work of art ever written has more of the fine drawn psychology of the emotions than Hamlet. The situations and their workings out are profoundly modern. Yet these subtle distinctions are interwoven so skillfully into a sound, melodramatic, robust plot, that the reader or observer gets out of it just what he puts in, exactly as in life. The mature mind, seeking Hamlet, is touched with the tragic cruelty of the situation. The immature mind sees a romantic adventure story with plenty of laughs. And the child who saw a recent performance is under the impression that it was a penny dreadful, full of fighting, dead men's skulls, girls who got drowned and hair-raising ghosts!

A modern writer would make three books of Hamlet. One would be a psychological study in the modern manner in which each of Hamlet's speeches would be drawn out into a chapter, with details. The second would be a detective story, and the third would be a folk tale, designed to stimulate the imagination of the little ones. By combining all three, you get a picture of life, which is great art. By doing them separately, you get three best sellers.

Minister: "As I gaze about, I see before me a great many bright and shining faces." Just then 87 powder puffs came out.

Mr. Herd: "What is the most deadly poison known?"

Addy: "Embalming fluid—you are dead, before it even touches you."

He: "The brake is something you put on in a hurry."

She: "Oh, I see. A sort of kimono."

DECADE BRINGS VAST RADIO CHANGE

Tenth Anniversary of Organization Formed to Foster the Art in America Emphasizes Progress.

The story of a decade in which communication leaped beyond the wildest dreams of years that had gone before is linked with an anniversary which just has been observed. The anniversary, marking the passing of ten years since the Radio Corporation of America was founded, is significant for the entire field of radio because the corporation has been associated so closely with the great changes which have pushed back world horizons.

How great these changes have been it is hard to realize now that radio is accepted casually as one of the biggest of American industries, doing a business of more than $600,000,000 a year. It helps to bring some realization to consider radio as it appeared to the men who formed the corporation, starting business on December 1, 1919. Broadcasting as it is today, with becomes a story of men, as well as the story of an era. Among them are Owen D. Young, whose broadminded judgment since has been recognized by appointment as Chairman of the Reparations Commission; General James G. Harbord, military leader with a brilliant record in peace and war, President; David Sarnoff, Executive Vice-President, one of many on the 40,000,000 listeners in the United States, was undreamed of then. Trans-oceanic radio telegraph and ship to shore communication were the interests of the men who were brought together by Owen D. Young, now Chairman of the Board, with the sympathetic cooperation of the government.

President Wilson feared the Alexander Graham Bell would enable the British to dominate radio telegraph, as they already dominated ocean cables and, at his request, the General Electric Company canceled negotiations for the device with the Marconi Company. It was to create a radio communication organization capable of holding its own against foreign competition and to supply such American organizations as the General Electric with a home market for inventions on which huge sums had been spent that the Radio Corporation was formed, welding under one central organization America's principal radio inventions and research facilities.

Now the history of the corporation company's first roll who had been working in telegraphy since boyhood; Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, Director of Research, a scholar of radio. The possibilities of broadcasting suddenly were realized in 1920 and one of the most striking developments of modern times is summed up in the fact that between them and the end of 1922 the number of receiving sets in the United States increased from 30,000 to 1,500,000. In the years that followed the Corporation organized a decade ago to further America's interests in radio telegraph has played its leading part in a changing world. Always developing that first interest in radio telegraph, it has acquired an important position in the closely allied amusement field. It has a substantial interest in the production, distribution and exhibition of sound-motion pictures, with increased facilities for furnishing entertainment and education on records, on films, through the air, in the theater and in the home.

A Thankful Heart
By M. W. A.

Dear Father, we thank Thee for Thy love,
And for Thy Son, sent from above.
We thank Thee for the waving grain;
And for the welcome sound of rain.

We thank Thee for the flowers that bloom;
And for the sunshine, casting out the gloom.

For all our friends and loved ones dear,
We ask a blessing with ne'er a fear.

For Thou hast promised if we pray
In faith, believing what we say
Will reach the heart of Thy dear son,
Will accept our thanks, Thou Holy One.

Interesting Service

Two Churches Hold

Last Sunday evening an interesting service was held at the chapel by the two churches. Miss Darling, teacher at the Pond school, and her pupils assisted in the service and added much to the interest of the occasion. Miss Helen Underwood read the Thanksgiving proclamation of Gov. Weeks and several of the children rendered songs and recitations. Miss Darling read the beautiful poem, "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers," and Rev. George E. Tyler gave a short address, setting forth some of the reasons why we all should be thankful, and especially Vermonters. He called attention to the high service which has been given by Vermont men and women who have gone out to help build in other States and nation. A good audience was present in spite of the unfavorable weather and all felt that it was a profitable Thanksgiving service.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT MOUNT HERMON

A feature of the program of the Thanksgiving Day service at Mount Hermon school yesterday morning was "A Hermon Hymn," to the tune of Austria, by F. L. Duley, '93, the stanzas of which are given herewith: Standing high upon her hilltop, O'er her valley broad and fair, Is our Alma Mater glorious— Her foundation laid in prayer. Sainted men with faith triumphant Have upbuilt her walls in love: Lo! she stands with God's own blessing Shed upon her from above. Like that Mount in sacred story Trod by Jesus' holy feet, May this mount shine with His glory And men here their Saviour meet, Grant here soul-inspiring vision Of life-service full and high; Fill each heart with Thine own knowledge, Train each ear to Wisdom's cry. When we have learned our lessons, Send us forth to do Thy will; Telling far in life's broad duties May Thy strength Thy children fill, And when Thou dost judge us ready For that Wisdom learned above, Call Thy pupils, Blessed Teacher, In the fullness of Thy love.

At the concert in the Memorial chapel at 7 o'clock p. m., the following program was rendered: The Noremen, Glee; Evening Peace, Svendsen-Wright, the Glee Club; Clair de Lune, Debussy; Liebestraume, Liszt, Mrs. Fleckles; Andante from "Surprise Symphony," Haydn, orchestra; Ninth Concerto for Violin and Orchestra: Allegro Maestoso, Adagio, J. Albert Fairfield, soloist; Daddy and the Boy, J. L. Harbour, Miss Poole; Lassie O'Mine, Walt; Carry Me Back to Old Virginia, Bland, Glee Club; Melodie from "Souvenir d'un Lieu Cher," Tchaikowsky, String Trio; La Carline, Ganne; The Rosary, Nevin, Mr. Wesloski; Suite from "Sigurd Jorsalfar," Grieg; 1. Forspell, 2. Intermezzo, 3. Huldigungsmarch, Orchestra; Spring House Cleaning, Anonymous, Miss Poole; The Hunter's Loud Halloo, O'Hara; Goodnight, Goodnight, Beloved, Pinsuti, Glee Club; Lights on Hermon's Hill, Alken, everybody.

OWNERS OF RADIO IN EVERY STATE

An interesting insight into the widely distributed ownership of the radio industry in the United States is given by the summary and classification of the stock of the Radio Corporation of America, the largest radio organization in the world. The latest statement shows stockholders in every State in the Union. Ninety-nine per cent of the class A common stock is owned in the United States, much of it being in the hands of small investors.

Although there is a good showing in the industrial East, as in the case of all stocks, New York State having 1,291 class A common stockholders, Illinois has 357 stockholders in the same classification. California lists 134 class A common stockholders, almost as many as New Jersey, which has 140.

Among the thirty-four foreign countries in which there are holders of class A common stock are such widely separated points as Argentina, Austria, British Guiana, Honduras, Egypt, India, Venezuela, Norway, Japan and Ireland.

Radio Reaches Out To Many Other Arts

In addition to transoceanic service, radio, now being developed as a point-to-point communication system, promises this year to add considerably to the transcontinental telegraphic facilities of the United States, according to David Sarnoff, Executive Vice President of the Radio Corporation of America.

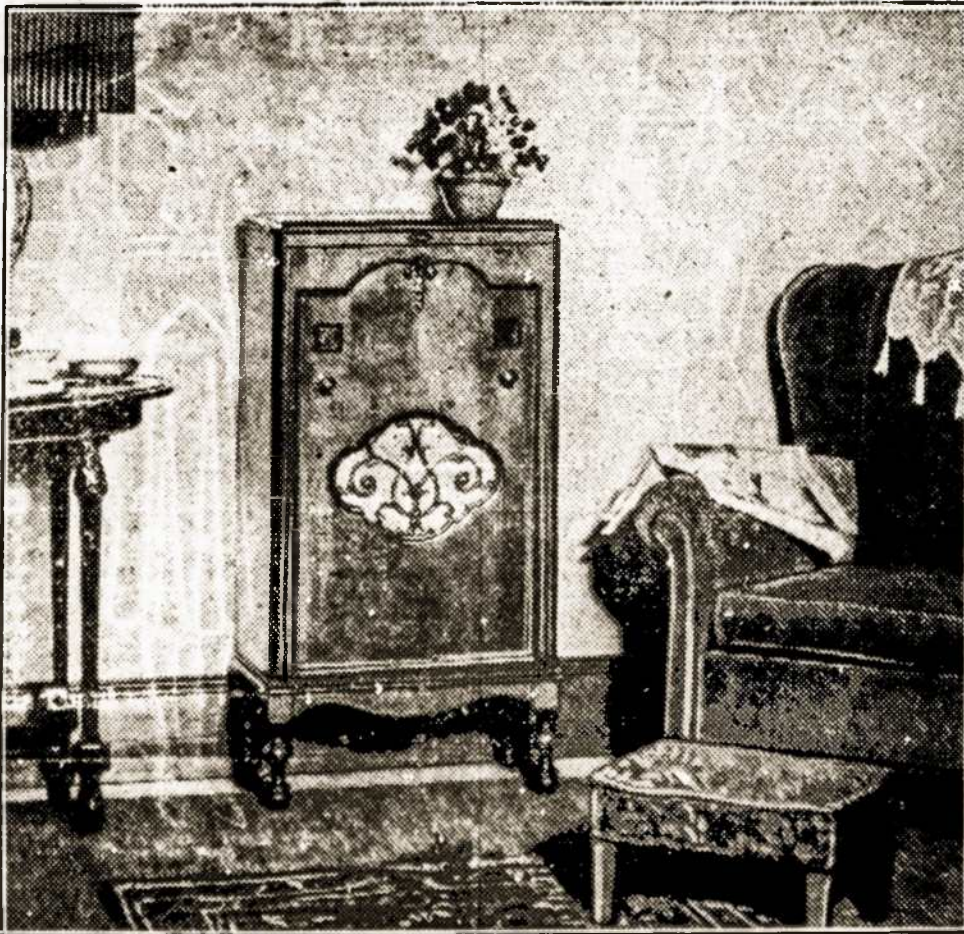

"Radio as a service to the home has been reaching out for association with other established arts of entertainment and education," Mr. Sarnoff says. "In the refinement of musical and speech reproduction, in combination with the modern phonograph (to render the two distinct services involved in broadcasting reception upon the one hand, and in recorded, selective programs upon the other), in the field of sound-motion picture development, radio faces another season of progress.

"It includes in its scope both sound and sight, both color and perspective.

"It is the first system of communications that has largely removed the limitations of time and space from the distribution of music and speech; it promises eventually to transmit the spectacles of life by sight communication. No channel of transmission offers a greater field of expression to the entertainment art."

Officer (to motorist who refused to stop): "Didn't I signal you to stop?" Motorist: "Yes, but my wife told me not to stop until I got home."

SCREEN GRID GIVES FARM NEW RADIO

One Example of the Newest Battery Sets Which Offer Really Modern Radio to Unwired Homes.

"The real split between the requirements of rural and city listener-in came with the introduction of the loud-speaker in place of headphones," says E. A. Nicholas, Vice-President of the Radio Victor Corporation of America. "Until then the usual battery radio set, especially when operated with dry cells, could serve both rural and city family equally well. With the loud-speaker there arose a demand for more power and better tone, with a decrease in operating cost, all of which led to socket-power.

"Now radio engineers have turned to the requirements of the unelectric home, eager to duplicate what has been achieved for city and town. Starting with current conservation as the ideal, they have evolved loud-speakers supplying ample volume and rich tone from a minimum input.

"The combined engineering and research forces of the Radio Corporation of America have been at work on this new conception of an efficient battery-operated radio receiver. After many months of intensive effort, such Radiolas have been developed. These new sets are not simply revamped versions of old storage battery or dry battery radio sets. They are entirely new conceptions of battery-operated sets, designed to establish rural radio more on a par with metropolitan radio. In sensitivity, selectivity, simplicity, economy, tone and power, there is little more to ask."
